

Portrait of a Most-Wanted Man

By FRANK LaPIERRE

It was a scene right out of the final days of John Dillinger, notorious bank robber of the 1930s. Only the locale was different.

Instead of the Bijou Theater in Chicago, it was the Wax Museum at San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf in 1974.

The tough-looking man sauntered out of the classy restaurant next to the museum with a pretty girl on his arm and started across the street toward a parking lot.

Suddenly a signal was shouted and lawmen from several agencies, including San Francisco, South San Francisco and the FBI, poured into the street and captured the man without a struggle.

Onlookers applauded.

One asked South San Francisco Det. Jack Rhodes, principal investigator in this case, when the episode would be on television?

His Best Friends— A Girl and a Gun

Wasn't it a scene from Streets of San Francisco, the woman asked?

It was real-life drama, not Hollywood revisited.

It was the arrest of Benjamin George Pavan, dresser, gourmand, bon viveur, alleged confidence man and gunman, once a pillar of South San Francisco's civic and charitable community.

He jumped bail on April 4, 1974, while awaiting trial and has not been heard from since.

He's come from pushing bad checks around South City to making the FBI's Ten Most Wanted list.

Pavan has got what it takes to be a successful con man, Rhodes grudgingly admits.

Once, about four years ago, Pavan allegedly held up a local North County restaurant and stayed around to hassle investigators when they showed up to question witnesses, Rhodes recalls.

In July 1972, Pavan, according to Rhodes, held up the New Southern Restaurant on El Camino Real in South San Francisco and walked off with an undisclosed amount of money.

That was in the morning.

Shortly after noon, Pavan, who later reportedly told Rhodes he went home to change his clothes, re-entered the restaurant and went into the dimly lit bar, where he was well-known, and ordered a drink.

While nursing the drink, Reno and Julio Donati, former owners of the restaurant, came in with Rhodes and began discussing the holdup.

Pavan butted in and asked what was going on. He was filled in on the incident by the parties concerned and tagged along as they made the rounds of restaurant personnel.

There are a number of other incidents around San Mateo County — and the West — Rhodes and the FBI want to discuss with Pavan.

Such as the two burglaries at Green Hills Country Club in Millbrae, May 1972 and Sept. 1973; armed robbery of the Gondalier Bar, May 1972; armed robbery of Welty's Bar on Sept. 21, 1972; Dot & Andy's Bar on Aug. 15, 1972; and, a return performance of the holdup 10 days later on Aug. 15, 1972 at Dot & Andy's bar once again.

Peeling safes was supposedly Pavan's trademark, police claim.

They want to talk to him about safe burglaries at Mano's Room, June 17, 1972; Sills Smoke Shop, June 19, 1972; Townhouse Bar, Sept. 11, 1972; and, a few others around the county.

Asked where Pavan learned the "art" of safe peeling, police answer, "At San Quentin."

Pavan served two years on a variety of bad check fraud charges in the late 1960s.

On his release, he came back to South San Francisco, where he had grown up, and resumed what fellow citizens and police felt was an exemplary lifestyle, even opening his own real estate and investment firm.

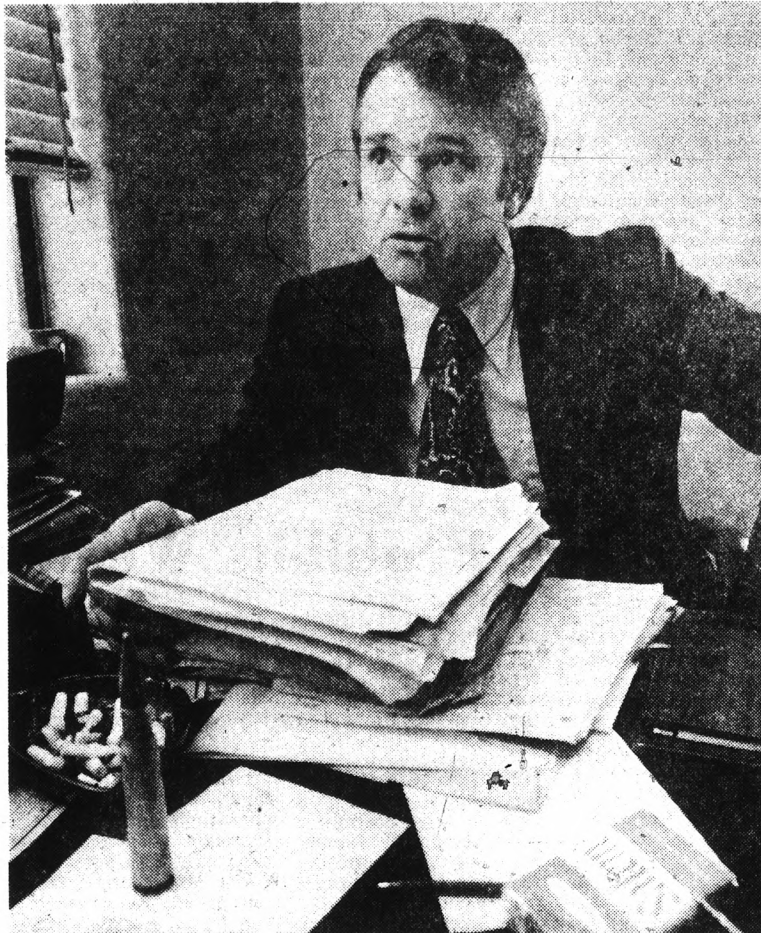

Rhodes says the firm — PAVMAR Investments Co. — was a front for Pavan's illicit operations.

In October 1972, Pavan participated in the armed robbery of a South San Francisco home in See WANTED, Page Two

BART Neighbors May Get Dibs on Parking

The much-criticized parking jam around the Bay Area Rapid Transit station in Daly City may soon be a thing of the past, Councilman Victor Kyriakis, chairman of the city's Preferential Parking Committee, announced today.

Kyriakis' committee met Tuesday to examine petitions from residents of the BART station area.

The petitions asked the city to designate certain blocks be made into two-hour parking limit zones, and to establish preferential parking for residents of the area.

Councilman McRobert Stewart is a committee member, and councilman Al Teglia is an alternate.

Representing residents of the area is Ernest Pezola and Conrad Pavallas.

It was expected the city will issue stickers to bonafide residents which will allow them to park all day without fear of being towed away for violation of the time limit.

The time limit applies only to weekdays — not to Saturdays and Sundays.

Residents of 13 blocks around the busy BART terminus have already signed the petitions, which were circulated by the Original Daly City Protective Association.

In every area, more than 75 per cent of the residents signed, an ODCPA spokesman said.

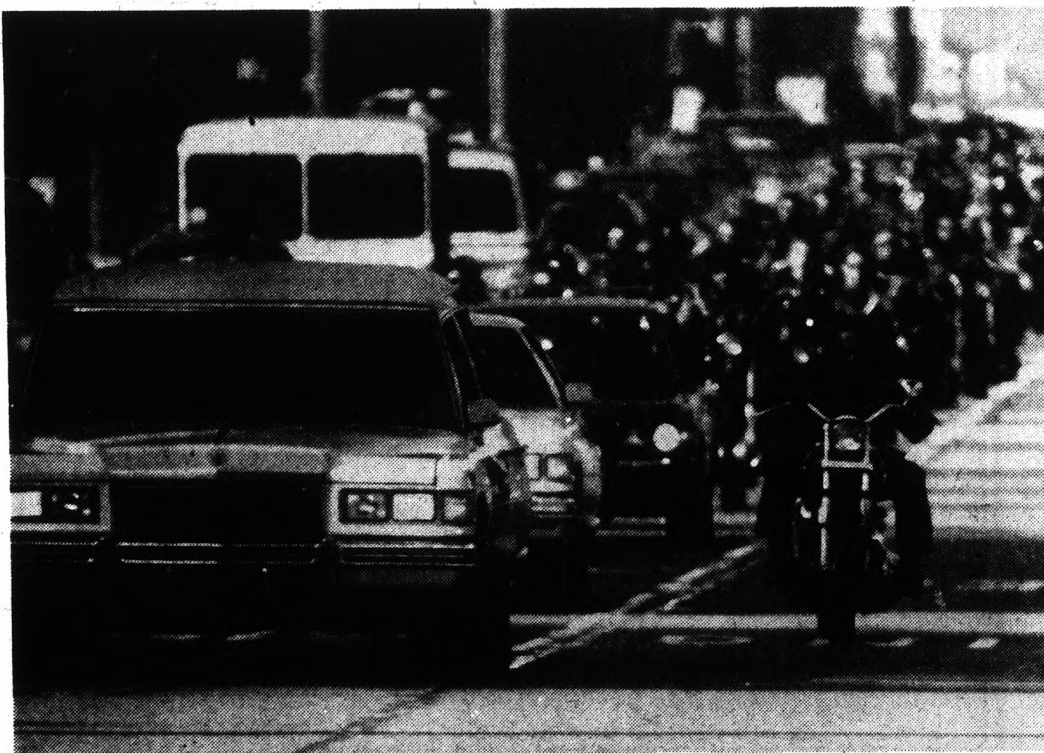

Purpose of the preferential parking ordinance is aimed at BART commuters who choke city streets throughout the day, using up all the parking spaces and forcing homeowners to park their own cars sometimes blocks away.

An ODCPA spokesman said the parking ordinance may also have a positive effect on the new SAMTRANS bus system in Daly City, by making BART commuters, who once drove their cars to the BART station, leave their cars home and use SAMTRANS.

Daly City, to cope with the parking problem, opened a parking lot adjacent to the BART station two years ago, where commuters could park all day for a small fee.

But many motorists ignored the city-owned lot and parked free in front of homes in the neighborhood, a city hall spokesman said.

He Takes a Drink, Then $400 Cash

The Globe Tavern in Daly City was robbed shortly before closing time Monday morning by a short, stocky gunman armed with a nickel-plated revolver.

Police said the man first sat at the bar drinking and later followed a beat policeman out of the Mission street tavern about 1:30 a.m.

He returned seconds later with a gun and forced the unidentified bartender and a woman patron into a small back room.

He fled with some $400 from the register, police said.

The gunman was described as 5-foot, 5-inches in height, 180 pounds, about 30 years old, with long sandy hair and a moustache.

have been set up by both Daly City and Pacifica in an effort to locate a suitable site for a garbage transfer station.

Once the committee, made up of two councilmen and the city manager from each city, whittled the list of possible sites down to a workable five, an engineer was hired to conduct a study.

The results of the engineering study should produce enough facts to convince both cities where,

Mussel Rock dump in Daly City has less than a year of life left and the state Water Quality Control Board has ordered it be closed on or before August.

If normal bureaucratic maneuvers are adhered to, the state will grant Daly City perhaps a six-month extension, until the end of 1977.

Meanwhile, committees

when and how much the transfer station will cost.

Daly City is required, apparently because of the style in which today's politics are choreographed, to appear before the state Water Quality Control Board and disagree with certain orders the state board has handed down to Daly City over future maintenance of the dump site.

City manager David Rowe, acting for both the city and scavenger company, will report to the City Council on the outcome of the session.

The city already is in the process of drafting an environmental impact report on the Mussel Rock dump site as a possible location for the twin city transfer station.

Request for a transfer station in this area must go to the Coastal Zone Commission, it was explained.

Conrad Pavallas, president of the Original Daly City Protective Association, asked why the Serv-U-Debris Co., an affiliate of the city-franchised Daly City Scavenger Co., refused to disclose its revenues.

Serv-U-Debris does not pay a city franchise fee because it does not have an exclusive franchise to operate in Daly City. The company does, however, pay a gross receipts tax, Rowe said.

Councilman William Schumacher said Serv-U-Debris Co. "seems to be an unregulated section of garbage collection" in the city.

Recovered: Books, Films

... Novelties

South San Francisco police arrested Monte Mervyn Mosby, 20, of 220 Linden Ave., Apt. 53 in connection with the burglary of Frenchy's Book Store, 105 Grand Ave., South San Francisco Monday.

Officer Fred Carelli said Mosby was apprehended after he allegedly tripped a silent alarm inside the adult book store about 4 a.m. Monday.

Recovered were some latex novelties, six reels of what police called "explicit films" and other X-rated reading matter.

Are the records of the scavenger company, including Serv-U-Debris, public records, Councilman Victor Kyriakis asked.

Rowe said he would respond to all questions on the scavenger company at the Jan. 24, public meeting of the council.

Teachers Protest 'Foot-Dragging' In Negotiations

Angry Jefferson Elementary School District teachers, who have been negotiating for more than six months over a new contract, said they plan to appear in person at Wednesday night's school board meeting to protest alleged foot-dragging by the district.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the district office.

The announcement coincides with the declaration last Thursday of an impasse in negotiations over a new contract. The next step is arbitration.

The 395 members of the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association (JCTA), the official bargaining representative for the teachers, want a $2.5 million package of wages and benefits.

The teachers presented their initial proposal July 7. They claim they have since made 25 counter-proposals to the district's three.

According to Supt. Pete Hensen, who has been sitting in observing some of the negotiations, the tally depends on who's doing the counting.

"If a counter-proposal means changing one comma, then that's open for discussion," he said. "Just the other night, the district made four or five substantial counter-proposals."

Hansen said he does not know what separates the two parties.

"I don't know," he said, "it's that mystifying. Really. Of $2.5 million package, you try to get them to identify a priority, and they can't."

He said he hopes arbitration will finally get the negotiations moving.

The teachers, on the other hand, claim the district is squandering taxpayer money on prolonged negotiations by using the expensive services of a law firm.

They claim that many of their proposals are negotiable, including class size, leave and transfer policies, evaluation procedures, classroom safety, and fringe benefits and wages.

Buttoned-up Cities Wait Out an Angel

The bars in Colma, Daly City, Brisbane and much of South San Francisco were closed during the funeral for Harry "The Horse" Flambaris Friday.

Not out of any respect for Harry but rather out of fear for the mourners who attended the services which started in San Francisco and ended at the Colma gravesite.

Flambaris, shot to death execution style with his girlfriend at their Daly City home two weeks ago, was buried at Cypress Lawn Cemetery with all the pomp and circumstance the notorious Hell's Angels Motorcycle Club could muster.

Angels from far and near came to pay Harry the Horse last respects.

They flew in from Massachusetts. Drove in from Arizona and Nevada. And roared in on their 100-plus horsepower Harleys from every point in the West.

The "hogs" lurched and See FUNERAL, Page Two

Funeral

screamed down Dolores Avenue in the Mission District of San Francisco, along the El Camino Real (Mission Street) and into the main entrance to the cemetery as hundreds of onlookers lined the route.

Every imaginable law enforcement agency was on hand to jot down license plate numbers of cyclists, record the event on film for posterity, and snap quick photos of the bikers as they roared by.

It was a sight to behold. The town had not seen such a spectacle since William McKinney (aka Jessie Galvin) was buried in late November 1974 along, stories have it, with his favorite motorcycle.

Before that, Chocolate George's entourage of mounted Angels sputtered and roared the last mile of Colma's main drag to the final resting site.

Down at Daphne's Mortuary Friday the more than 200 mourners passed around bourbon and beer and chattered about the early demise of one of their fellow riders.

Some embraced and kissed. There were even a few tears shed for their departed brother.

Harry the Horse was, after all, the president of the Daly City chapter of the Angels and many believed he should have gotten better than two bullets in the head while his hands and feet were bound and his mouth and eyes taped shut.

The empty booze bottles were discarded in trash receptacles and, as one Daphne employee explained, those who came to mourn and drink "made a real effort to keep the mortuary premises clean."

Harry was carried in his modest gray wood coffin by six gloved pallbearers to the waiting white hearse.

With the kick of a starter, the first bike roared to life and soon the neighborhood shook with the roar of almost 200 high-powered cycles.

You could hear the Angels coming before you actually could see them.

The din as the bikes travelled the ancient north-south route of the missionaries broke the early afternoon calm.

The skies were sunny and only a slight wintery breeze played over the town — perfect weather for a motorcycle outing.

But the Angels came to bury their Caesar and to praise him.

The white hearse, preceded by an honor guard of six motorcycles, pulled up to the gravesite and Harry the Horse was carried the final few yards to the open grave.

A few words were said for Harry as the leather-jacketed crowd stood silently in respect, their motorcycles neatly lined up on both sides of the cemetery access road.

Then Harry was lowered into the hole. Shovels manned by Angels began filling in the grave and soon the services were over and the crowd began to break up.

The bikers retraced their route out of the cemetery in small groups, running a gauntlet of news cameramen stationed by the entrance.

Some angels took offense at the cameras and zagged out of their way to frighten the lookers-on.

One television cameraman was spat on, kicked and nearly run over by several cyclists as he stood by the side of a road filming the procession that snorted by.

But George Lang (Channel 5 KPIX) continued shooting his footage, seemingly oblivious to the smell of the grease and roar of the bikes.

Two burly Angels took offense, however, when Lang continued to film the crowd gathered at graveside.

They grabbed his camera, opened it and exposed the footage.

The bars reopened their doors to thirsty patrons late Friday afternoon.

Except for what they had read in the newspapers about Harry's murder, most patrons belling up to North County bars probably never heard about "The Horse," and couldn't have cared less about the fallen angel.

Pacifica Prohibits Weed Sprays

Pacifica's environmentalists marked a victory Jan. 11 when the City Council voted to discontinue the use of chemical sprays to control weeds.

But just how the city is going to control the unsightly growth in the coming years is uncertain.

Although Fire Chief Calvin Hinton had asked the council to continue the spray method of weed control, the council directed City Manager Don Weidner to come up with another program of control by mechanical means or by pulling them out by hand.

The three council members present — Mayor Janice Fulford, Sidney Loran and Mark Savage — directed that a new program be devised in 60 days and that an attempt be made to employ Pacifica youths.

Hinton told the council that other methods of weed control will be more costly. Chemical control, the target of a lingering dispute within the city, is the best way to handle Pacifica's weeds, Hinton said.

The Fire Department traditionally has been assigned the task of controlling the unwanted growth.

Pacifica's environmentalists have been challenging chemical sprays as a means of weed control for years. At times, different residents have sued the city. One resident several years ago charged that the city's weed control effort ruined his organic vegetable garden.

Eventually, the council directed its staff to apply to the regional Coastal Zone Commission for a permit to spray on land within the zone. More dispute ensued and the permit was denied.

The city appealed to the state coastal commission, which ruled that the city could spray four-foot wide perimeters around parcels using mechanical means in the center. That method, Hinton said, would be impractical and time consuming.

The abatement program was suspended this year pending a decision by the City Council.

City officials said that the Coastal Commission's legal counsel was unwilling to say whether Pacifica needs a permit for spraying because of the implications for many other agricultural operations on the Coast. Presently, no permits are required of those agencies.

City Atty. Gloria Scheid said the city can do one of four things — abate weeds according to the terms of the state permit, conduct a spraying program without a permit, terminate the program or take criminal action against homeowners who fail to abate weeds.

"If the city were to spray without a permit, I would anticipate that the Attorney General might seek a court decision on the matter," Mrs. Scheid said.

Hinton said the lack of rainfall this year has hindered growth and the weed problem is not serious. He recommended that the program be abandoned this year but resumed in 1977-78.

"Of the methods available, chemical abatement is the most practical," Hinton said.

Two residents who have repeatedly challenged the use of chemicals, Ruth Paige and Robert Berry, protested Hinton's recommendation.

Berry said the sprays that have been used are known carcinogens, cancer producing substances. Hinton responded that the chemicals were never proven to be carcinogens. They were only known to cause goiter in certain small rodents, he said.

Hinton said that the cost for chemical control of a 50 by 100 foot lot in 1975-76 was $19.50. The estimated cost for weeding that same lot by hand is about $105, he said. There are 858 parcels of varying sizes that must be controlled.

SSF Eyes Safety Sites

By JANET PARKER

The South San Francisco Fire Department has been eliminated from the City Council's uncertain plans to build a public safety facility.

Instead, the council has directed the City Manager, Walter Birkelo and his staff to start entirely new plans for relocating just the Police Department — focusing on two property — options unimproved land the city already owns and the vacant Value Giant building on El Camino Real.

It was the council's first move forward on the on-again, off-again facility in more than a year.

The future of the Police and Fire Departments has been uncertain since the council rescinded three-year-old plans for a $4.5 million public safety facility last June.

Alternatives to building the facility, including remodeling or rebuilding the existing police department, were studied by the council in November but no action was taken.

The council still has not decided if it will seek another ballot proposition to finance a new police facility. A 1974 proposition to finance the police and fire building was defeated by a narrow margin. Yet, council went ahead with plans, using nonprofit corporation financing.

The manager and his staff are expected to come up with proposals and possible methods of financing in 160 days. Birkelo said that free consulting service by specialists in police facility needs could be available through the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Agency.

The council, except for Councilman Richard Battaglia, agreed that the Fire Department needs were not a priority. If a dual facility were presented to voters again, Mayor Leo Padreddi said, it would be rejected.

"It was originally a beautiful idea to combine the facility," Padreddi said. "But after the election, it appeared people were not ready for it."

South San Franciscans, he said, like the satellite fire stations that are now situated in three locations in the city.

Battaglia, however, said he still believes the majority of residents want a combined police and fire facility and that the land purchased by the city for that purpose at Grand and Chestnut Avenues is the best place for it.

In any event, the fire station in the Buri Buri neighborhood, he agreed, should remain open.

Councilman Emanuele Damonte was first to mention that the vacant Value Giant building, a two-story structure with a basement garage, might be remodeled for Police Department use.

Director of Public Services Frank Addelgo said the city staff was already looking into it. It contains about 57,000 square feet on each level and it is on the market, he said.

The resident who sued the city over the method of financing the original facility, Ron Acosta, told the council he looked into the Value Giant building three months ago. The cost at that time, he said, was $1.8 million.

Acosta said it's an ideal building, with elevators to transport prisoners from the basement. He warned the council not to procrastinate.

Other residents at the meeting, however, expressed doubt about the stability of the building, particularly the floors. And one pointed out that El Camino Real is just as busy as the original site for the facility at Grand and Chestnut.

The councilmen also expressed concern that publicity about the city's interest in the vacant building would push up the price.

"If it wasn't worth $1.8 million then, it now," Councilman Terry Mirri commented.

The public safety facility architect, George Avanesian, said that just the interior features of the original building plan cost more than $1 million. The Value Giant building, he said, would require considerable improvements.

which the two occupants were tied up and robbed of some $12,000 in jewelry and cash.

A few months later he was arrested by police.

Benjamin "Bennie" Pavan, former bartender, private cop, real estate broker, salesman, homeowner, father of two boys, husband, son and, currently, Most Wanted Man in the nation.

What made Pavan, apprehended on April 4, 1974, jump bail shortly after his release, leaving his mother to pay the $50,000 bail money?

Why had Pavan run off with his sister-in-law, Diana Miller, deserting his wife of many years and two small boys?

Without funds, Janice Pavan, considered by police to be another innocent victim of Pavan, has been forced to work and raise her sons alone.

The mother, Maria Bazzuri of San Bruno, is also an innocent victim of her son's apparent change from an average hardworking citizen-family man, to outlaw.

She reportedly put her real estate holdings up for her son's bail.

In his professional opinion, Rhodes feels Pavan went on his alleged crime spree "simply because of greed."

Pavan is known to frequent the best hotels, is considered an excellent dresser, likes fine food and flashy cars.

His two constant companions, according to police, are a sawed-off shotgun he carried in an attache case and his girlfriend.

Wednesday, Jan. 26 will be checkout day for 52 Serramonte senior students who will be graduating mid-year. The Serramonte faculty will be hosting a coffee and cake reception to honor the graduates at 2:30 p.m.

On Thursday the Serramonte C.S.F. (California Scholarship Federation) will be taking a field trip to the University of Santa Clara. They will be at the college from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. and will take a campus tour, visit some departments, and meet with the college registrar.

THE SERRAMONTE SPROCKETS, a 10-speed bicycle touring club, recently held a special meeting during which they met Clark Natwick of the United States Cyclo-Cross Team.

Clark is enrolled in Serramonte's Environmental Education program. He has qualified for world competition and will be competing in Hanover, Germany, on Jan. 30.

Besides talking with Clark, the Sprockets have been busy. During winter vacation, nine Sprockets rode 70 miles to Santa Cruz. Although there were some technical problems, the Sprockets had a great time.

On Jan. 9, the Sprockets rode to Golden Gate Park where they had a team pursuit race around the polo field. The rider with the best time was Greg Dominguez (1 minute 35 seconds). Second fastest was Steve Daly, third was Brent Burgess, and fourth was Jeff Lindstrom.

THE AIR IS HUMMING, and something great is coming! "West Side Story" is coming to Serramonte and these lyrics from the play tell it straight, "West Side Story" is going to be great!

The Serramonte Student Congress is an organization made up of representatives from first period classes, and is chaired by student body vice president Cheryl Moses.

The Congress' main purpose is to voice the concerns of the student body. Any student who wants something done or has a complaint may contact his representative who will bring the idea to the Congress.

The Student Congress is a principal advisory committee and most of the decisions passed are set in motion by the principal.

The Congress is presently working on the playing of a radio over the PA system during free time and the planning of Multi-Ethnic Day in March.

Samuel Chandler

A new President, a new epoch in our history, perhaps a new era and a new age. Why not salute them by reading about the Presidency of the United States? Many books have been written to explain its nature.

Among them is a title that has called forth reams of discussion, "Choosing Our King" by Michael Novak. In it a fellow of the Rockefeller Foundation charges that "Every four years, Americans elect a King. Not simply a King, but a High Priest and a Prophet." The President of the United States is no mere manager of an insurance firm. The way he lives affects our image of ourselves. His style and his tastes weight upon our spirits."

Novak muses that, "We, too, the enlightened Americans, feel the need of myth and mystery in national life." Along with our magic parchments — like the Declaration of Independence, our shrines, our hymns and heroes, we make a symbol of our President. We speak of his moral leadership and treat his office as the chief symbol in a "religion in a secular state."

From this beginning, Novak describes American symbols and demonstrates how they reflect the people who choose them. Recent presidents were chosen for what they symbolized: Eisenhower, a silent generation, Kennedy an activist decade, Nixon at first made some people feel solid and appreciative and later symbolized a feeling of "being heavy and ashamed."

FROM A DISCUSSION of the President as an American symbol, Novak moves to other symbols of modern America. "Steady Ed Muskie — Calming-Peaceful," "George Romney like toothpaste fighting moral decay," "George McGovern: right from the start." Each standing for something Americans idolize and need.

Unfortunately, Novak wrote his book before the 1976 election. Nevertheless, its analysis of a part of the American character and of the American Presidency makes reading it rewarding.

Erwin C. Hargroves "The Power of the Modern Presidency" (Knopf, 1974) is a solid textbook-like guide to the modern Presidency. One by one he takes the President's responsibilities and explains them in terms that are easily understood.

Clinton Rossiter's "The American Presidency" (Harcourt, 1965) appeared in 1956 and has become a classic that has been revised. In it Professor Rossiter presents an analysis of the country's highest office and some of the men who held it. Unfortunately, however, it does not include a discussion of the administrations since Eisenhower's.

In the closing chapter Rossiter observes that in spite of the "elective kingship" quality of the Presidency, and of the almost limitless power the office has achieved, "The power of the Presidency moves as a mighty host only with the grain of liberty and morality. The quest of constitutional government is for the right balance of authority and restraint, and Americans may take some pride in the balance they have built into the Presidency."

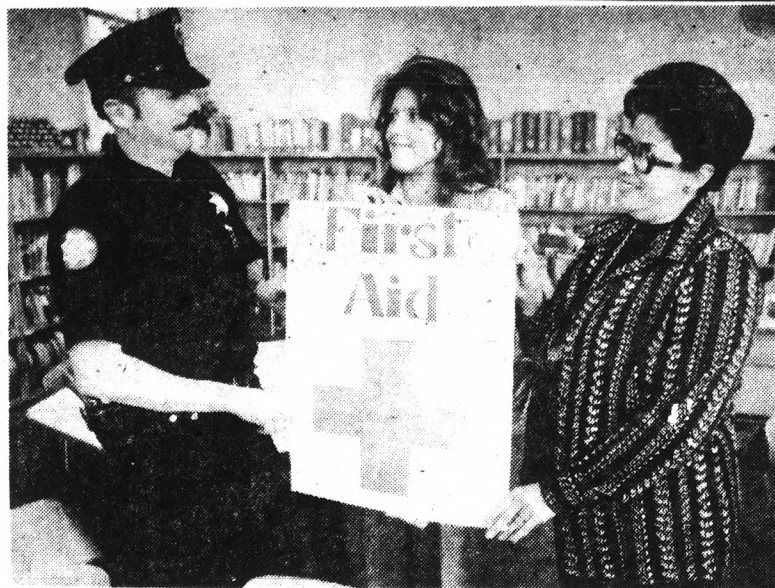

JAMES MACGREGOR BURNS "Presidential Government" (Houghton, 1973) is another classic in the field of presidential books. It has been called excellent, brilliant and accurate. In it Burns explains the relationship of the President's assistants in a collective leadership that runs the country. In it he analyzes the rise of the Presidential Government and the emergence of the President as a leader in fields that the founding fathers did not even consider.

Burns points to a direction that he believes that every successful President must assume. "A great society needs not consensus but creative leadership and creative opposition — hence it needs the sting of challenge in a society rich in diversity and in a politics rich with dissent."

The Student Congress alternates who attend Congress if their class representative does not are Henry Abuda, Varorij Bedikian, Jackie Bonnie, Gail Brown, Jody Buttram, Sheila Calabro, Ty Cheng, Willie DeGuzman, Alise Ellis, Ken Fineman, Steve Gersh, Vicki Giannulias, Melisha Hannon, Jackie Hill, Rowena Holman, Lisa Hunter, Keleziner Johnson, Darryl Jones, Eric Jones, Diana Law, Keith Lindstrom, Knares McDonald, Joe Nobles, Stacy Palmer, Dave Pelofski, Tony Ramos, Dela Rodriguez, Chris Roy, Mark Tessum, Narkwee Tze, Daria Wiggins, Valerie Williams and David Yee.

STUDENT BODY CARDS are still on sale for $4. Students with these cards will not only save money on student body functions, but also in stores, and most of all, on admission to games.

NEW YEAR, NEW BADGES

of Sgt. Thomas Reese (far right). The four were welcomed on the first business day of 1977. They will be undergoing training at the police academy before going on street patrol.

Board Approves Transit Program

A five-year program of federally assisted highway and transit projects for San Mateo County was adopted this week by the County Board of Supervisors.

The plan, which is based on assumed federal funding of $13.8 million through 1981-82, now goes to the state Department of Transportation and the Metropolitan Transportation Commission with supervisors' recommendation for approval.

County Public Works Director S. H. Cantwell Jr. said the plan's largest proposed allocation is $2 million for this fiscal year for the county's transit program.

In the 1977-78 plan, $1,245,000 is proposed for improvement of the Holly Street-Bayshore Freeway interchange in San Carlos, with another $800,000 going to the transit program.

Cantwell noted that the recommended program is an updating of the five-year program of priorities established by the Board of Supervisors last year. The updating is required to maintain the county's eligibility for Federal Aid Urban projects.

Royer New Head Of Transit Unit

William H. Royer, a county supervisor, was elected by acclamation this week to head the nine-member San Mateo County Transit District Board of Directors.

His one-year term begins officially at the board's Jan. 26 meeting.

C. Robert Payne of Pescadero was elected vice chairman, also by acclamation, succeeding Royer in that post.

The board voted a resolution of appreciation to outgoing Chairman Robert E. Norris, a Redwood City councilman.

Norris, in remarks after that vote, said he saw the district's most critical need as a marketing program that will sell mass transit and give it what it needs to carry out its programs.

Citing "a critical fuel crisis before us now, despite what you hear about there being adequate supplies for now," Norris said, "We must provide true alternatives to the automobile. The only viable source of funding, I think, will be an increase in gasoline taxes."

"If there's no more money coming in two years, BART will end and other services like San Francisco Muni and AC Transit will curtail service."

In the Orient

Marine Lance Corporal Richard A. Derenzi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Derenzi of 785 E. Market St., Daly City, has reported for duty with the 3d Marine Division on Okinawa.

Tax Could Kill Vending, Owners Say

Vending machine operators say that a new sales tax proposed in Pacifica will take the profit out of their businesses.

The Pacifica City Council is considering a new ordinance that would establish a tax of 8 per cent on the first $1,000 of gross receipts and 5 per cent on gross receipts above that up to a maximum of $500 a year.

The city has been without a sales tax on the businesses since the vendors successfully challenged the legality of a 1974 ordinance. It charged a fee on each vending machine operated within the city limits.

Several vending machine owners and operators asked the City Council Monday night to meet with them and devise a sales tax that would be more fair.

Ken Younkin, representing Automatic Merchandising Co. of San Francisco, said the vending companies are not opposed to a tax, it's just that the proposed figure is too much. He said it would mean an 800 per cent increase over the fees paid in the earlier ordinance.

"It only breeds undesirable companies to do business in Pacifica," Younkin said.

Carson Nohnberg's

Pleasant Hill company deals strictly with bulk vending machines — the penny, nickel and quarter old-fashioned machines that sell gumballs, peanuts and trinkets.

Nohnberg said the new tax would run him out of business in Pacifica.

"The tax you have proposed is confiscatory," Nohnberg said. "We would have to go out of business as far as bulk vending."

Nohnberg showed the council one of his shiny, bright red machines filled with gumballs. The machines, he said, are designed to accept only certain coins. It's impossible, he said, to alter the machines to take in more money to compensate for a tax increase.

The state sales tax, he said, is only 6 per cent. The proposed tax, he said, is simply unfair.

He said each of his machines takes in about $50 a year. The initial cost of each is about $25.

Pacifican Ray Cook, representing Rowe International vendors, said many of the vending machine operators are retired people. About 60 per cent of their income pays for the product, 20 per cent goes toward their commissions and only 20 per cent is their own profit, he said.

Louanne Heath

Have you talked with your friends and organized a table for the elegant "Heart of Fashion" luncheon and fashion show to be held Feb. 5 in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel? If not, today is the day some tickets go on sale this Saturday on a first-come, first-served basis.

This lovely afternoon event, sponsored annually by the Westlake Catholic Women, is always a sellout and anyone planning to enjoy the ample luncheon and view the parade of fashions must be in line early to be sure of obtaining a table.

Mrs. John Loughran and Mrs. Robert Riech are the reservations chairpersons and they will have the tickets available on a first come basis for $8 per person. No phone or mail orders can be accepted.

The co-chairwomen for 1977 are Mrs. Harry Lindner and Mrs. Robert Drucker. Mrs. George San Pietro is the publicity chairperson.

VICKIE HACKETT reports that the Board of Directors of the Balboa High School Alumni Association will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the teachers' lunch room at Balboa. Visitors are welcome at all meetings.

Alumni members who wish to place news articles in the newsletter must have copy in the board office, 1100 Cayuga St. in San Francisco, before the end of this week.

FRANCIS AND JEAN THORN will present their slides of Africa at the general meeting of the Friends of the Daly City Library when that group meets on Jan. 27.

Mrs. Margaret Connolly is in charge of the program and Mrs. Verna Teglia is president of the Friends.

Mrs. Virginia Tierney will be the new president and Mrs. Pat Hansen will be the vice president. Others on the new board will include Mrs. Betty Harper, secretary, and Mrs. Jeanne Tomasello, treasurer.

The installation will be held in Lyle's in South San Francisco.

THREE TRAVELERS have returned to the Bay Area following junkets out of the state.

Mrs. Murray H. Freedman has just gotten back her land legs following a luxurious cruise aboard the Golden Odyssey.

Emily flew from the local airport to Las Palmas and then sailed on to Lanzarote, Cabo Verde, Dakar, Granada and Aruba before heading homeward.

Mr. and Mrs. John Madrosen have returned to their Westlake home following a visit with their sons, daughter-in-law and three grandchildren in the Pacific Northwest.

GIRL SCOUTS are busily selling cookies to raise money for scouting units and activities in this area. If you wish to shop for goodies to satisfy all those people in your family with a sweet tooth, be sure and look up your favorite scout! The sale continues until Jan. 30. Five types of cookies are available: mints, lemon cremes, chocolate and vanilla cremes, Scot-Teas and Savannahs. All varieties are sold for $1.25 per package or $15 per case.

Roof Ruined

A spark from a neighbor's fireplace apparently caused a fire that destroyed the roof of the Theodore Bauer residence at 1367 Solano Drive, Pacifica, Sunday.

Firemen said no one was at home when the fire was discovered at 8:30 p.m., first by someone two blocks away who reported a tree fire.

The wood-shingle roof was fully involved when firemen arrived. Firemen said there was considerable water damage to the ceiling of the home, but that salvage covers were placed over furnishings.

A fire department spokesman said preliminary estimates placed $20,000 damage to the roof and $3,000 to contents.

Twenty-eight firemen, including volunteers, fought the blaze in the Linda Mar residence.

Deed of Trust for School Site Transferred

Homeowners Cite Concern Over SSF Priority in Busing

Some anxious comments were voiced Thursday when South San Francisco Unified School District Board President Thomas Henkle signed over a deed of trust to Suburban Realty for the unused Serramonte Junior High School site.

The concerns were raised by Mort Herman, representing the Serramonte Homeowners Association, over fears that the board's action will result in increased busing for youngsters living in the Serramonte area.

According to Herman, the sale of this $1,050,000 piece of property and its subsequent development will only bring in more families with more school-aged children to a community where enrollment has reached (and in some cases exceeded) capacity.

Herman unsuccessfully sought some definite statement from the board that all youngsters from the new development would be the first ones bused, as well as a promise that both the developer and prospective buyers would be made aware of this plan.

Herman reminded the trustees that elections are coming (three seats will open up during the March governing board elections) and Serramonte Homeowners will be watching carefully any actions taken regarding this issue.

HOWEVER, DAVID CRICKS, assistant superintendent for certificated personnel, told the board it should not be intimidated because an election is near and that a committee is now studying enrollment in the district, including enrollment in the Serramonte area.

Repeating comments made during two prior meetings, Cricks again assured Herman that district policy will be followed, by informing the developer of the school attendance area for the new families.

Added Trustee John Dillon: "You can't treat people coming into the district as second-class citizens."

"You're not treating them as second class citizens," countered Herman, "you're treating us as first-class citizens by recognizing we were here first."

Herman said this issue is still unresolved and that he intends to follow all developments closely as well as staying in contact with Senator John Foran regarding this issue.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board: Approved a joint powers agreement for participa-

Students in the ESAA (Emergency School Aide Act) program at Westlake School in Daly City and their math teacher, Carolyn Snowberg, show off a math mural they made, first of a series planned at

Guidelines Reviewed by Review Board, Planners

A number of esoteric issues were discussed at a joint meeting of the Pacifica Hillside Review Board and the Planning Commission last week.

Members of both bodies examined guidelines laid down by the new California Environmental Quality Act.

"There are fairly significant changes in the guidelines," Planning Administrator Malcolm Carpenter told them.

"There must be a set of evidence that documents how findings (of the commission or council) are determined," he said. "And the guidelines state that if there are significant points between these and approval of a project."

Carpenter said that the most important aspects of CEQA guidelines is that "certain mandatory findings of significance have to be reported in the Environmental Impact Report."

City Atty. Gloria Scheid asked board and commission members for their comments on Planned Development "over-lay," since she intends to strengthen the relevant ordinance by re-writing it.

Later in the meeting, confusion arose over the responsibilities of the Hillside Review Board, which was established to determine if developments met criteria of Pacifica's Hillside Preservation Ordinance.

Some members of the board indicated they think the planning staff should determine if a developer is adhering to the ordinance.

At one point, as the discussion was becoming heated, Commission Chairman Joe Greene interrupted.

"We're getting away completely from what we're here for — we're not supposed to be questioning what our or their (the board's) duties are," Greene said.

After the 2½ hour meeting, one commissioner commented privately that the board seemed intent on accruing more power.

"They recently sent us a recommendation which mentioned sprinkler systems. The board has nothing to do with such items," the commissioner said.

Design Sought

Gerald Minford, San Bruno city manager, will begin discussing with a Millbrae architect design possibilities for the renovation of the vacant Hatlo Market.

The San Mateo Avenue market will be converted into a community center for the city's senior citizens and the handicapped. The City Council decided last year to spend some $340,000 in federal funds to purchase the store and to remodel it.

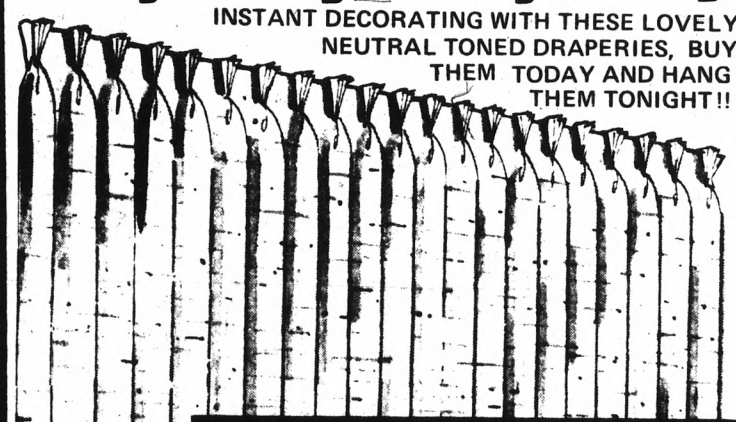

Minford told the council this week that appraisals of the building have been completed and submitted to the county for review. He said he believes it is important to begin discussing remodeling designs as soon as possible to minimize delay in project completion.

Scout Cookie Sales Continue

Cookie sale continues this week with girls from the entire San Francisco Bay Area offering for sale five different boxes of fresh cookies.

The cookies are priced at $1.25 per box and all profits remain in the troop of the girl salesperson or provide direct support services.

Local shopping centers, churches and stores are again this year offering the girls booths in which to sell cookies.

Kathy Skirra is the local coordinator for cookie sales booths and troops are asked to contact her for reservations.

Margaret Kachur, Daly City area cookie sales chairman, states that girls who sell thirty (30) or more boxes of cookies will receive a cookie award.

Troops selling the most cases of cookies and the most cases per girl will also receive awards.

Types of cookies include mints, lemon cremes, chocolate and vanilla cremes, Scout-Tears and the peanut butter Savannah cookie.

DOG BISCUITS

Kris, the three-month-old puppy of a South San Francisco Girl Scout, finds that even dogs get a hankering for cookies occasionally. The five varieties of cookies are being sold by local Scouts to benefit troop activities.

Plant Show to Return

Impresario Bill Graham, whose rock music concerts have received worldwide acclaim, and whose retail plant show in 1976 was such a resounding success, is producing the second annual World of Plants and Crafts at the Cow Palace, Feb. 18-27. Graham's plans call for an all-new production of outstanding displays.

Speaking recently before the Northern California Landscape Contractors Association, Graham announced that this year's World of Plants and Crafts will have an exhibit of flowers specially provided by the Netherlands Flower-Bulb Institute, Inc. incorporating a 14-foot Dutch windmill, a bridge and pond.

There will be 4000 tulips of various colors, 2000 hyacinths, as well as thousands of daffodils, crocus and other Dutch blossoms," the show's producer said.

Graham also said this event is a showcase for the 300 retail booths selling plants, flowers and related garden crafts from all over the USA.

DC Bridge Player Gets Top Ranking

Kien C. Sien of 300 Palmcrest Drive No. 79, Daly City, has attained the highest player rank awarded by the American Contract Bridge League, reports Richard L. Goldberg, executive secretary of the 200,000 member organization of bridge players in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Bermuda.

Goldberg said the rank of Life Master is awarded in recognition of bridge expertise and success in competitive bridge play and has been attained by only 23,000 players in more than 40 years.

Life Master rank is awarded upon accumulation of 300 Master Points, with at least 50 won in demanding regionally or continentally ranked tournaments, Goldberg said.

The Life Master players receive a gold membership card symbolizing life membership in the organization which establishes rules of play, standards of ethics and sponsors tournaments throughout North America.

Bookworms to Glimpse East African Wildlife

A glimpse into the lives of the inhabitants and the exotic animals of Eastern Africa will be revealed to The Friends of the Daly City Library and their guests Jan. 27 at 7:30 p.m. in the community room, Serramonte Library, by the Francis W. Thorns.

Francis, who is connected with Burlington Industries, and his wife, Jean, visited zoos and saw African animals, and heard from friends about their trips to this continent.

They planned for six or seven years, including buying cameras, and finally were able to leave on their safari when the youngest of their two children entered college.

The plane bearing the Thorns and their equipment landed at Kenya's Entebbe airport February, 1976, just two months prior to the time Israelis rescued captives from a hijacked plane at the same airport. During their travels through Kenya and some nearby areas, the Thorns took slides of wildlife and at the same time found themselves becoming aware of facets of the lives of the people.

Program chairman Mrs. John M. Connolly has arranged for exhibit of African artifacts.

Mrs. Albert Teglia will preside at the brief business meeting to precede this program. Evening hospitality chairman Linda Rovai will be in charge of refreshments.

The event is scheduled as a community service, and the public is invited to attend free of charge.

Super Bowl XCMIV, or whatever the number it was, was one more good example of why sports writers in general and I in particular should never make predictions.

Had I predicted that game, I would have said, "I won't say who will win, but I will guarantee that the final score will be a difference of one to three points, and that the totals will be in the low 20's. The difference will probably come on a break, like an interception or a blocked kick, and if it is the latter it will probably mean that the Vikings will win, because they are experts at blocking kicks."

When Minnesota blocked Ray Guy's punt attempt early in the first quarter and ended up on the Raider three, the first thought which rushed through my head was, "Dammit, now why didn't I print my prediction, so that I could have looked like an expert."

SO MUCH FOR EXPERTISE. As is usual, the game was won in the trenches, with the Raider offensive half handling the Vikings' Purple Gang. In retrospect, this should have been predictable. The 49er patched up and certainly not awesome forward wall shoved Minnesota all over the field in late season. Which, incidentally, makes the 49ers all the more promising for next year. Their running backs are superior to Oakland's, and if they can get just a little more up front, they should be able to run on any team, including the Steelers.

As for Fred Biletnikoff, it was gratifying that he got the MVP accolade. Clarence Davis, who ran for 137 and averaged 8.9 yards per carry and blocked well, as usual, could have just as easily gotten it, and would have been deserving. But it was really Biletnikoff who made the key offensive plays to break up the game. He didn't score a touchdown, but for a total of about three more yards, at most, he would have scored three of them. He just kept missing getting into the end zone.

Also gratifying was the scene on the sidelines, as the announcement of Biletnikoff as MVP and recipient of a new car was announced, of Biletnikoff being hugged and being shown genuine affection by teammates who were obviously glad that Fred had been recognized. He's an old man by pro football standards, and has had a reputation of being a testy sort of guy, and his teammates seemed to want to show him that none of that mattered any more — at least not until next season.

As for the losers, Fran Tarkenton (who Gordie Soltau still thinks is "Tarkington") showed class by appearing on a post-game TV show, not bad-mouthing anybody, describing how Oakland had simply out-played the Vikings, and in general accepting defeat graciously and articulately.

But when are we going to have a Super Bowl that isn't dull!

AS MENTIONED A FEW WEEKS AGO, The Sporting News All-America team is always interesting because it is chosen by professional scouts, often differing greatly from those "all" teams picked by sports writers, coaches, etc. This year was no exception, as about half of The Sporting News team differed from a consensus of the so-called major All-Americans.

On offense, the pros picked Colorado tight end Don Hasselbeck over the consensus pick of Notre Dame's Ken MacAfee.

In the interior line, there were two differences, as the pros picked tackle Warren Bryant (Kentucky) and guard Steve Schindler (Boston College), both ignored by the major pickers, although agreeing on USC tackle Marvin Powell and Georgia guard Joel Parrish.

At center, The Sporting News favored Bob Rush of Memphis State over Derral Goforth of Oklahoma State.

And the pros went for Joe Roth of Cal in a big way over Tommy Kramer of Rice at QB. Everybody agreed on running backs Tony Dorsett (Pittsburgh) and Ricky Bell (USC) although the consensus picked three running backs as against the pros' two, adding Michigan's Rob Lytle.

Defensively, there was a difference of two in the down lineman. The pros agreed that ends Ross Browner (Notre Dame) and Joe Campbell (Maryland) belonged, but disagreed on the tackle spots, choosing Mike Fultz (Nebraska) and Mike Butler (Kansas) over Bob Brudzinski (Ohio State) and Wilson Whitley (Houston).

There was a difference in two of the three linebackers. The pros agreed with the others only on Robert Jackson of Texas A&M. They chose Brudzinski as a linebacker and favored Calvin O'Neal of Michigan over UCLA's Jerry Robinson and Al Romano of Pittsburgh.

The consensus All-Americans settled on five defensive backs: Bill Armstrong, Wake Forest; Gary Green, Baylor; Dave Butterfield, Nebraska; Dennis Thurman, USC; Oscar Edwards, UCLA. The Sporting News agreed only on Armstrong and Green. Their other two choices were Raymond Clayborn of Texas and Lester Hayes of Texas A&M.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE WEEK: Hollywood is making another Life of Joe Louis movie and still looking for an actor to play the title role, which, supposedly, O.J. Simpson turned down. This is the second time around for a Louis film biog.

Can you name the actor who played Louis in the original, about 20 years ago?

The answer is, it wasn't an actor, or even a reasonable facsimile. It was a young heavyweight fighter named Coley Wallace, who was nurtured carefully by television, flourished as a contender for a while, and then faded, along with his acting career.

SPECIAL MOMENTS IN SPORTS: Frankie Albert was a 5-10, 180 pound southpaw passer who had been a fair tailback at best for the Stanford Indians in 1939. But Coach Clark Shaughnessy noted in the 20-year-old a cool intellect and a flair for the gamble that he thought might just make Albert a great T-formation quarterback in 1940.

And Shaughnessy felt that he was now ready and that Stanford now had the right kind of personnel to convert from the then standard single-wing to a remodeled T based on the old pro formation he had learned from George Halas and Ralph Jones while working part-time for the Chicago Bears, which had in turn been based on football's basic formation of the 1880's.

The Indians came from out of nowhere that year, baffling their entire Pacific Coast schedule with Albert's mystifying handoffs, and charged right into the Rose Bowl against a powerful Nebraska squad which had supposedly played a much tougher schedule than Stanford and had been beaten only by rugged Minnesota. "Nebraska will annihilate those fancy duns," said the skeptics.

The skeptics' attitude seemed justified when the Cornhuskers received the opening kickoff and moved 79 yards to a touchdown. But then Stanford got possession, and Albert began to work his left-handed magic. Right halfback Hugh Gallernau, a powerful off-tackle runner, knifed 11 yards for a touchdown after a rapid downhill drive highlighted by Albert's quick, short passes and the crushing charges of fullback Norm Standless, a runner in the great Ernie Nevers tradition.

NEBRASKA WENT AHEAD IN THE SECOND QUARTER, BUT Albert immediately hit Gallernau for 40 yard TD pass and then kicked the extra point, to put Stanford ahead, 14-13.

Finally, left halfback Pete Kmetovic, the quick starting man in motion, broke away from a 60 yard touchdown romp to finish Nebraska, 21-13. . . and the whole nation knew that Stanford had begun not just a very special moment in sports, but a sports epoch.

Retains NPL Cage Lead

A Close One for The Regents

By JOHN MURPHY
Post Correspondent

Oceana High basketball coach Don Novitzky may be using Grecian Formula 409 before this season is over with.

Novitzky's Sharks dropped another hair-graying decision Monday — this time to league-leading Serramonte, 71-70. Oceana is now 2-3 in North Peninsula League play, with those three losses being decided by an overall total of eight points.

In other NPL contests high-flying Jefferson remained in hot pursuit of Serramonte by edging Half Moon Bay 58-56, El Camino captured its first league win, humbling Westmoor 54-39, and South San Francisco ripped Terra Nova 76-45.

Oceana-Serramonte

Oceana's game plan was a sound one against the unbeaten Regents.

The Sharks parlayed crisp, intelligent passing with excellent rebounding to stay close with Serramonte at halftime (39-37) and then to lead throughout most of the second half before succumbing to a late Regent rally.

Serramonte got off on the right foot throwing a full court press at Oceana, getting easy baskets. The Regents led 21-17 after one period.

But Oceana got its passing game moving in the second quarter against Serramonte's gambling defense and got enough high-percentage shots to stay within two at halftime.

Serramonte mounted its biggest lead early in the second half, taking a 46-41 advantage. However, Oceana bounced back with consecutive baskets by guard Conrad Simon to pull within one.

Following a bucket by Regent center Reggie Love, the Sharks burst into the lead with a jumper by Jim McCrary, a McCrary lay-in and an inside hoop by Allen Dawkins.

Oceana finally built its largest lead of the day at 70-65 on a Simon jumper with just under two minutes remaining in the game.

Then the roof collapsed for Oceana.

Serramonte rallied on a 10-footer by Lou Tinsley with 1:33 left and a long jumper moments later by sophomore Ricky Mixon.

After Oceana missed a crucial one-on-one with 48 seconds left, Serramonte grabbed the rebound and proceeded to miss two outside shots. The Sharks gained possession. But Oceana was unable to keep control as the Regents stole a pass with 10 seconds left and then Mixon won the game at the buzzer with a 25-footer.

Simon and McCrary led Oceana with 26 and 23 points, respectively, while Mixon topped Serramonte with 17. Tinsley added 14 points for the Regents.

Jefferson-Half Moon Bay

Jefferson survived a foul-plagued first half to emerge victorious in this key battle for second place.

The Indians had two starters with four fouls and another one with three by half-time but still led 29-27.

Jeff began to take control of the boards and the game in the second half, leading by as many as seven points. However Half Moon Bay, with good play by forwards Grant Campbell and John Galvin, rallied to trail by one with 4:36 left.

That's when Jeff guard Steve Vasquez took charge, rattling off seven unanswered points to put the Indians up by six with two minutes left.

The Cougars did pull to within two late in the game but Jeff's Greg Hughes wrapped up the win by meshing two free throws with five seconds left.

Vasquez took game honors with 22 points and Darryl Jackson also had 10 for the Indians. HMB was paced by Campbell with 21 and Galvin with 19.

HMB managed only 22 of 39 from the foul line.

Westmoor-El Camino

Some torrid second half shooting off a deliberate, well-conceived offense earned El Camino the shocker of the season thus far in the NPL.

It also handed Westmoor its second straight defeat after the Rams' 49-game NPL win string was snapped last Thursday by Jefferson.

Camino, operating patiently and efficiently in the second half, signed the nets, converting 13 of 19 field goal attempts.

Bill Kennedy had an outstanding game for the Colts, collecting 18 points and scoring the boards for 20 rebounds. Mike Brenghini added 10 points (eight in the third quarter) for Camino.

Jack Dorn led Westmoor's scorers with 16 points and Mike Burns had 10.

Terra Nova-South City

South City guards Larry Grubbe and Scott Ergas combined for 32 points to lead the onslaught.

SSF also received good play underneath from forward Johnny Jones and 6-7 center Paul Wintroath.

The Warriors outscored Terra Nova in every quarter and cleared the bench early against the struggling Tigers.

Short-Term Foster Parents

Agency Proposes 'Alternative Homes'

By LIN DAY

There are probably a lot of folks in San Mateo County who'd like to step in and give a young boy or girl compassionate care and love for a few days when catastrophe and crisis enter the youngster's home and he must be given shelter elsewhere until they are resolved.

The Family Service Agency of San Mateo County is looking for such people, and is willing to pay $10 a day for the youngster's care if a volunteer will come to the rescue of some of the young victims of crisis homes.

In an innovative program designed to fill the gap for care and compassion, where a long-term foster home is not needed, but some sort of short term, say two days to two weeks, housing is essential to give the child assistance, the FSA has a plan to help out.

It is setting up "alternate homes" with parents licensed under an exclusive county licensing program, and training the short-term foster parents for their special role.

So far, two are in operation and the FSA would like 10, according to Robin Lamson, program director. "The kind of people we are looking for," Lamson says, "must be warm and caring. We don't want them to be social workers, but to provide some calm, and, hopefully, nurturing shelter for a few days. We will accept single parents, too."

While most of those showing interest so far have children, the program is open to those whose children have grown up.

Lamson admits that the potential need far surpasses the present capability of FSA. Schools estimate a referral rate of 70 to 100 a year.

The San Mateo County Receiving Home feels that about 25 per cent of children presently sent there should not associate with the youngsters already in the home, Lamson says.

The children involved usually are innocent victims of what has happened in their home. An FSA tract says that the youngsters involved have not committed any serious criminal act concerned with their home crisis. All of them will be between 10 and 18 years old, and live within the areas of San Mateo, Belmont, San Carlos and Foster City.

"Putting a youngster into our Juvenile Justice System," Lamson says, "is in most cases a very good way to insure further trouble."

"Our alternative homes give us a normal place to put a youngster while we work to untangle the problems that resulted in a crisis."

Parents wishing to aid in the program first must show that all family members agree that they are interested in participating in the program, called "A Place to Stay."

Should they decide to go ahead, an application is taken for a county foster home license.

Prospective parents then are fingerprinted, given a county TB test, and submit medical proof that they are in good health. The FSA pays costs associated with the fingerprinting and medical information if parents can't.

A county licensing worker visits the home once, as does a county sanitarian. The county then issues the license.

While this is all being processed, the FSA training program for alternate parents begins, with four meetings of more than two hours each held evenings over a month's period.

During the meetings, the program is spelled out and questions are answered. Families are given assistance in learning how to listen to the youngsters and how to avoid taking sides.

In addition to paying $10 a day for the first two weeks of any youngster referred, and $7 a day up to the maximum stay of days allowed, FSA provides liability insurance of up to $1, 10 hours of training and 24-hour, 7-days-a-week professional backup in event of problems.

The FSA program has been underwritten with a one-year grant from the county Board of Supervisors of $25,000 (federal revenue sharing funds), some $8,361 from the San Mateo Foundation and the same amount from the Distribution Fund.

A sum of $300 was donated by the League of Service of St. Matthews Episcopal Church in San Mateo.

Woman Dies in Accident

A Daly City woman driving southbound on Interstate 280 Thursday was killed when her car smashed into an overpass abutment, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The woman, identified as Felicitas Javier, 33, of 681 Villa St., was pronounced dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital.

Her two passengers, Ferdi Sabado, 44, of Los Angeles, and Nora Zantlis, 35, of Anaheim, also were injured and taken to the Daly City hospital.

The CHP said the three were southbound just before 1 p.m. in the left lane of the four-lane freeway when the driver tried to move into the second lane from the left at the same time as a car in the third lane.

When the Javier woman saw the other car, the CHP said, she apparently overcorrected and swerved first to the left, then to the right.

The car then veered off the road and ran along the embankment and then struck the off-ramp support at the intersection of Junipero Serra and John Daly Boulevards, the CHP said.

The car finally came to rest back on the roadway, the CHP said.

Daly City firemen and Medevac personnel used the hydraulic "Jaws of Life" tool to free the three victims.

Recycle Center's Big Day

Pacific Recycling Center had its biggest day in six years on the first Saturday of the new year more than two tons of bottles and 14 sacks of aluminum in just a few hours.

Ecology Action of Pacifica is pleased with the zeal for recycling but finds it necessary to point out a few guidelines for future recyclers to follow.

They urge them to bring items only when the center is open — Tuesdays and Saturdays between 10 a.m. and noon.

Should this be totally impossible, then leave bottles and cans on the premises on the morning of those days thus reducing the abuse from nature and vandalism. Currently, accepted are bottles, clean with labels (colors can be mixed); tin cans washed and labels removed; newspaper tied (no magazines or phone books); aluminum cans or TV trays, clean and flat and no cardboard until further notice.

Leaving newspapers has created a problem since they easily become wet and muddy. Some 10 bundles had to be dumped last Saturday. Those who cannot bring newspaper during open hours can leave them tied out for Coastside Scavengers beside their weekly garbage pick-up or take them to Olympic Gas Station, Sharp Park (during business hours), which has a bin to hold them and keep them dry.

Problems of Leftovers

Nell Norton

One problem that we have to face over and over is how to use up (in a new and tasty way) some leftovers. This problem is solved by the California Beef Council in the following way.

Gather the remains of a hot roasted beef and potato feast and keep them cold until shortly before time to eat again. Then take equal parts of the roast beef morsels and the potatoes and toss lightly with mayonnaise accented with sweet, sour and herb touches. A super whole meal salad for easy dining.

AL FRESCO BEEF AND POTATO SALAD

2 cups cubed cold medium rare roast beef
2 cups diced cooked potatoes
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
1/2 teaspoon dill seed, crushed
1/8 teaspoon white pepper
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
1/4 cup minced parsley
Cucumber and tomato slices.
Combine the two cups

each potatoes and meat. Sprinkle lightly with the fourth teaspoon salt and toss lightly. Mix the three-fourths cup mayonnaise with the one teaspoon prepared mustard, fourth teaspoon celery salt, half teaspoon crushed dill seed, eighth teaspoon white pepper, one tablespoon each sugar and vinegar and fourth cup minced parsley. Pour over meat and potatoes. Toss to mix.

Serve chilled in bowl lined with alternating cucumber and tomato slices. Makes 1 quart (4 servings).

The RAMADA INN on Fisherman's Wharf, San Francisco, now has a Dance Contest on Thursday nights and you're invited to enter. The winning couple receives a bottle of champagne and free dinner, plus lodging, if desired. The dance action is in the Pirate's Den, the lively disco-bar....Word reaches this desk: With over 100,000 persons at the Super Bowl game, who should be sitting back-to-back but the two Peninsula pizza barons — ENRICO ROMANO of ROMANO'S Italian restaurant in Rockaway Beach and PETE BRALLIER, owner of five ROUND TABLE PIZZA PARLORS. Dining on pizza? No, hot dogs....With big name entertainers booked at Circle Star Theater, you can be sure that SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S in Redwood City will be the dining scene of stars. Everything on the menu is a house specialty....For that special occasion dinner at PHIL LEHR'S STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, Taylor Street entrance, Phil recommends the Steak Shallot Armanino, cooked to order and flamed at tableside....Tuesday eve at VINCE'S ITALIAN AND SEAFOOD restaurant was a little on the "soup-er bowl" side. A customer waiting list was as long as your arm. Great food and service is the crowd reason....Dinners at MURRAY LEHR'S GREENHOUSE GARDEN RESTAURANT in San Francisco include a salad bar that is actually a gourmet meal in itself. It includes unexpected treats such as Cold Rice Curry, Shrimps in Aspic, Potato Salad, Cherry Vinaigrette and fresh fruit.

GATHERING ITEMS

Members of the Marge H. Tobias School PTA gather items that will be for sale at their second annual garage sale Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the school's multi-use room.

From left are committee co-chairmen Honey Masters and Cecile Wallis; Danny Hinkle, 4, PTA President Carolyn Pierantoni, and Ellen Hinkle, chairman of the committee.

SSF Teachers, District Talks Bogged Down

After 49 hours of negotiations, The South San Francisco Classroom Teachers Association and representatives of the unified school district have reached agreement on only two items out of as many as 43.

The two upon which the negotiating parties have agreed were expected — that the CTA is recognized as the exclusive bargaining agent and that the final contract will be bilateral and binding.

Both the bargaining team for the CTA and the district say there has been virtually no progress because the other party fails to offer meaningful counter-proposals.

"We're not too terribly far along," said CTA president John Heron, a participant in negotiations. "The board in almost every position is in the same place they were on Nov. 10," when the board presented its contract.

Heron said the CTA has compromised on some aspects of its original 143-page proposal, "in an attempt to get negotiations moving along."

The district, he said, has refused to negotiate on almost every topic, sticking to its original offer presented in its 22-page proposal.

The district's bargaining team contends otherwise. In an intra-district memo to its management team, Sheldon Winston, acting superintendent, said the CTA's team is delaying negotiations.

"It has become quite obvious that the CTA team does not have the authority to negotiate a contract for the members," the memo stated.

Winston wrote that at negotiations last Friday night, the board presented a counteroffer to the CTA on teaching hours. Three hours later, the CTA negotiators said the proposal looked interesting, but they would have to check with their members before making a commitment, according to the memo.

Later in the evening, Winston said, the board's team offered a 39-line counter-proposal on evaluation. After a three-hour break, the CTA would agree only to five words concerning the timing of evaluations.

"Clearly, the teacher representatives have no authority to bargain at the table," the memo stated. "They must return to others to write counters. The counters they have written are long, with only a few words changed from the prior proposal."

"There can be no movement in these talks until the CTA representatives are given the authority to negotiate," Winston wrote.

Until this week, the board's negotiating representatives have withheld comment concerning negotiations. Associate Supt. Joe Smith said the district team and the CTA agreed that negotiations would be conducted in private session and public comment would be restrained.

During the last negotiations in 1974, when teachers went on strike, public negotiating sessions were held and often resulted in outbursts by citizens.

However, Smith said, comments by CTA representatives to the press have prompted the district team to publicly discuss the issues.

The district also recently calculated that it would be necessary to increase the school district tax rate by $3.90 to finance the CTA's proposed package. That would mean a property tax increase of $390 a year on a typical $40,000 home.

CTA president Heron said the teachers have compromised on their original proposal that teachers be paid for all night activity and supervision required and assigned by the district. Instead, he said, the CTA is asking for a limit of 30 hours a year of such assigned duties.

Heron said the CTA also has withdrawn its request that teachers be paid for providing emergency pupil supervision during their preparation periods.

However, Smith said teachers are professionals and are expected to perform certain duties beyond their regular teaching hours. It's their responsibility, he said.

He also said the district could not pay teachers for emergency supervision during prep periods because it would constitute double pay.

The next negotiations are not scheduled until Jan. 21.

BE A GREAT COLLECTOR, EVEN ON A BUDGET!

START WITH A FEW TREASURED ACCENTS, from $85 to $165 MFRS. SUGG. RETAIL PRICES, FROM $109 to $209

Budget-watchers, here's sound advice.

Don't buy so-called "bargain" furniture. Pennsylvania House may cost you a little more to begin with (not much more now, though, when it's 20% off!), but it will cost you much less in the long run. Because the fine pieces you buy today will be just as beautiful years from now—even more so as the woods mellow with age!

If you must limit your investment, buy a few pieces to begin with—every piece shown here is an American Traditional masterpiece of solid cherry. You can keep adding to these pieces—as slowly or as quickly as you can afford—throughout the years. You simply couldn't make a wiser investment—even at regular prices. At 20% off, these are buys you can't afford to miss.
